

A Family Tradition

In 1957, Bob and Maxine Sykes opened an ice cream and hamburger stand in the Central Park area of Birmingham, AL. This was about the time Bob built his first pit and began to cook the barbeque he remembered so fondly as a child growing up in the hills of western Tennessee. The rest, as they say, is history. For over 50 years, Bob Sykes BarB-Q has been the benchmark for others to match for true southern barbeque.

While times have changed, nothing has changed in over fifty years in the way we prepare and cook our famous barbeque and special sauce. This tradition of excellence has been passed down to Van Sykes, the son of Bob & Maxine, who is passing on his knowledge to Jason Jewell, Bob & Maxine's grandson. As you can see, the family secrets for the best barbecue in the South are in safe hands.
